

YOUTHFUL LOVERS.

Evade Parentage Vigilance and Are Married at Springfield.

Alonzo Gray and wife, arrived in the city Sunday from Springfield, Tenn. Their home is in Lamasco, Lyon county. Alonzo is sixteen years old and his bride, who was Miss Otey Cummings, is just one year older. Both belong to prominent families in Lyon county. Their parents objected to the union on the grounds of the youth of the lovers. But love is impatient. Love is likewise vigilant and ingenious, and Alonzo and Otey have furnished another exemplification of the trite old truth that locksmiths are a source of unfailing amusement to love. The youthful lovers stole a march from their watchful parents and Saturday went to Springfield where the nuptial knot was tied. They returned to Lamasco Sunday.

DIDN'T GET HOME.

Released from the Work House He Immediately Commits Another Offense.

Wallace Kays is a colored youth whose crimes couldn't be counted on your fingers. He is only twelve years old but he is an adept in the ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain.

Saturday he was released from the work house where he finished a thirty days term for petit larceny. Instead of going home to his mother on being released he loitered around town and it wasn't very long before he had swiped a suit of clothes from J. H. Anderson's. His arrest followed.

He was taken before Judge Cansler for trial and given another term of thirty days in the work house.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

Will the Queen Ask for Peace.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The resignation of the Spanish ministry, which is announced by the press dispatch to-day, means that Mr. Sagasta and his associates have lost confidence in their ability to control the people, or that they realize that the people lost confidence in their ability to meet the crisis. Their resignation gives an opportunity for the queen to change the policy of the government and ask measures of peace if she has the moral courage to do so.
